

Telos Corporation Named a 2021 Top Workplace by The Washington Post

June 18, 2021

Cybersecurity leader receives award based on employee engagement and satisfaction

ASHBURN, Va., June 18, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Telos® Corporation, a leading provider of cyber, cloud and enterprise security solutions for the world's most security-conscious organizations, today announced that it has been named a Top Workplace in the Washington D.C. area by The Washington Post. The win follows the company's second consecutive year receiving the Washington Business Journal's Best Places to Work designation.

The Washington Post's Top Workplaces program recognizes companies that are leaders in the Washington metropolitan region in areas of employee engagement and satisfaction. Companies are chosen based solely on employee feedback through a research-backed survey administered by Energage, a leading provider of technology-based employee engagement tools.

"This recognition is a testament to the family atmosphere we work hard to foster at Telos," said John B. Wood, CEO and chairman, Telos. "Embodying core values of integrity, building trusted relationships, working hard together and designing and delivering superior solutions, Telos has created an environment that encourages commitment and success every day."

"At Telos, we find our work both meaningful and fulfilling," said Donna Hill, director of human resources, Telos, "and each employee has a critical role in our success. To be included among the top-notch companies in this year's Top Workplaces list is recognition that each employee shares in that satisfaction."
