April 22, 2022

Cybersecurity leader selected to upgrade wireless network at top military academy

ASHBURN, Va., April 22, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Telos® Corporation (NASDAQ: TLS), a leading provider of cyber, cloud and enterprise security solutions for the world's most security-conscious organizations, today announced that it was awarded a $3.1M contract for the United States Air Force Academy (USAFA) Wi-Fi network expansion program.

Under this contract, Telos will upgrade and expand the current Wi-Fi system in the Dean of Faculty, Cadet Wing and 10th Force Support Squadron's facilities.

"Telos is proud to support the Air and Space Forces' premier institution for developing the future leaders of our great nation," said Major General (R) Paul Capasso, USAF, VP of strategic programs at Telos, and USAFA Class of 1978. "We are pleased to help the academy improve productivity, enable collaboration, and help facilitate education and training through modern digital technology."

This Wi-Fi replacement system expands the USAFA wireless network capabilities so students, faculty and administrative staff can access the separate, commercial internet called "MissionNet," which allows them to connect to internal resources, such as the Student Information System.
